Preface

This inaugural edition of the Compendium of African Biography is the doubtlessly the first and largest biographical entries of African professionals published in one volume, representing the continuous progression of the Africans in professional activities.

WE are glad that the general public promptly accorded the publication by the eagerness with which most biographees enrolled in the compendium. We have no doubt that such approval will be accorded the publication a vast majority of associations, professional groups, library journals, academic and corporate libraries as well as scholars and research groups.

Professionals enlisted in this publication are pure on merit and they personally signed their biographical entries in the data form.

All biographees enlisted here were living at the time research was compiled.

Its important to say that the Nominations Committee of African Biographical Centre, who coordinated the compilation of this inaugural volume has done a good job. Therefore, the book is designed to serve the many varied and special needs of our continental libraries, schools, universities, media and research organisation, in addition to individual researchers.
